Entertainments

MISS BAILEY COMPLIMENTED

WITH AFTERNOON AT BRIDGE.

Among the delightful pre-nuptial affairs in honor of Miss Virginia Bailey, whose marriage to Mr. Nugent Bailey will be an important social event of the coming week, one of the most enjoyable was the afternoon at bridge at which her sisters, Miss Annie Bailey and Mrs. R. H. Campbell were the hostesses on Friday afternoon.

The Bailey home on Belvedere boulevard was attractively decorated for the occasion with a profusion of early fall blossoms in pastel shades.

At the conclusion of the game of bridge, in which pretty prizes were awarded to the successful contestants, a delicious salad and an ice course were served to the guests.

The hostesses were charmingly gown-ed for the afternoon, Miss Bailey wearing a blue and white dress with a black and white dotted sash, while the honoree wore a stylish frock of brown linen with plaid trimmings and Mrs. R. H. Bailey, who assisted her daughters in entertaining, was gowned in a blue and white dress.

The guest list included 20 special friends of the honoree.

Informal Dance.

The Tressavant street pavilion in Overton park was the scene of a delightful, informal affair on Thursday evening, when Miss Nell Portant and Mr. Leon Kaplan entertained with a dancing party. During the evening delicious refreshments were served and the guests, 100 of whom and the pleasure of being present.

PICNIC AT RIVERSIDE
IN HONOR OF VISITORS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McLeod have planned a delightful informal affair for Friday evening, when a number of their friends will enjoy their hospitality at a picnic and watermelon feast at Riverside park. The honorees of the affair will be their attractive house guests, Miss Hattie and Miss Mabel Watts, of Selma, Ala.

Weddings

Sanders-McElroy.

The marriage of Mrs. Eva Louise Taylor Sanders to Mr. S. Richard McElroy was quietly solemnized in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John L. Taylor, Jackson, Tenn., on Thursday evening at 8:45 o'clock, the Rev. G. M. Oakley, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church officiating, in the presence of only the immediate families.

The bride wore a stylish fall suit of blue tulle, a full hat in harmony and a corsage bouquet of Sweetheart roses and valley flowers. Both Mr. and Mrs. McElroy are members of prominent families. Mr. McElroy's home was Greenville, S. C., where he is associated with one of the largest rubber industries in the world. Mrs. Sanders, who was formerly Miss Eva Louise Taylor, of Jackson, has a number of friends and relatives in this city who will learn with interest of her marriage.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for St. Louis and other points of interest. On their return they will be at home in Jackson.

Announcements

Dancing Party Postponed.

The dancing party which was to have been given on Friday evening by Miss Annie Check Barton, in honor of her guest, Miss Rosemarie Waters, of Baltimore, has been indefinitely postponed, as Miss Waters will be unable to remain for the affair.

Engagements

Turcott, of Greenwood, Miss., formerly of Memphis, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Henrietta Butler Hay, to Mr. Edward Sneed, of St. Louis, Mo., on Thursday, August 12, in the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mayfield McNeely, 552 Cooper street.

Amusements

Loew's Lyceum.

"Spivey's Corners," topping the bill for the last half of Loew's Lyceum, is a rube act that really is funny. There is not a line of the comedy that is strained. Three rural characters are equalled in a straight vocal act. There is a queen with the turn who not only has the looks, but who is a show-stopper when it comes to dancing. "Spivey's Corners" got the hand at Thursday night's supper show, and deserved it.

Entertaining stories told in child fashion about children, for grown-up children, are delightfully delivered by "The Little Girl." This woman of battery, who has a real name alone, is known to her home agent, is a show-woman for fair, that's all.

Morrell's Toy Shop, featuring a dog that does a one-man handstand, and any recent animal act through Memphis, is a rube act that really is funny. There is not a line of the comedy that is strained. Three rural characters are equalled in a straight vocal act. There is a queen with the turn who not only has the looks, but who is a show-stopper when it comes to dancing. "Spivey's Corners" got the hand at Thursday night's supper show, and deserved it.

Two female impersonators who are different from the rest of this type are Francis and Fox. Songs and selections on the violin, rendered to a nicety, are offered by these two boys. An elaborate wardrobe, the ability to handle hands and feet in a manner truly typical female, has these two front row seats in the wailing line. Miss and Herman close with hand balancing feats.

Love is won and lost over night in "Camille of the Yukon," feature photodrama. It is a story of Alaska.

Orpheum.

There is a touch of old-time burlesque to the Orpheum bill which opened Thursday. Nothing rough, either in costume or in the way the show is reminded of those long-gone shows. The atmosphere is created by the Loxenberg sisters and Miss Neary. The girls are clog dancers—a good team, who do pony stunts. Then some of their quick and risqué mind-son, humor of burlesque dialogue.

Neary sings. He shouldn't. Also he does some burlesque stuff that is not funny, which never will cause Tex McLeod any cause for alarm over his position during the show.

Still another reminder of the rough and tumble Columbian or American show attractions is the act of the "Tall Brothers." Their burlesque stunts and bright costumes find favor especially with the children. The "Tall Brothers" act, the first seen here in seasons. There is too much to the whistling close, but the audience Thursday night liked it.

A distinctive novelty is offered by Louis Belmont and Bert Sage, bike riders. Usual cycling feats are set off with fantastic costumes. Mason and Dixon do negro stuff that might pass above the M. & D. line, but never here in the South. According to the program, Jim Doherty is a singing comedian. He has a lot of fly stuff and some neat songs, but somehow Doherty doesn't seem to get across.

The ever popular Doris Kenyon is starred in "The Harvest Moon," screen attraction. Well directed, this film provides a simply yet entirely pleasing story.

LEGION TO ELECT.

The annual election of officers of Memphis Post No. 1, American Legion, is scheduled for Friday night, when the former soldiers will meet in the first criminal court. Reports also will be heard from the committee on constitution, the finance committee and the convention committee.
